

THE WHIG STANDARD.

"Flag of the free thy folds shall fly,
The sign of hope and triumph nigh."

FOR PRESIDENT,
HENRY CLAY, OF KENTUCKY.

WASHINGTON.

THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 18, 1844.

THE CONSTITUTION ANNIHILATED!—MR. MADISON'S RESOLUTIONS OF 1798 TRAMPLED UNDER FOOT!—MILLERISM TRIUMPHANT!—THE WORLD APPROACHING AN END!

We copy the following from the Richmond Enquirer of last Tuesday:

"Another rumor comes on the wings of the wind from Washington. It is of the most extraordinary and astounding character. A letter reports that on Tuesday last Mr. Mangum had a dinner party, and that Mr. Tyler and Mr. Botts were among his guests! Mr. D. Webster, being then in Washington, was present, and also 10 Whig Senators. A part of the report is said in the letter to have been a fine saddle of mutton, which Mr. Botts had received from his farm, and had previously presented to Mr. Mangum."

Can this be true? Can it be true that the President of the United States has consented to break bread and drink wine, meet at the same board, with one who has proclaimed him to be a traitor, and charged him on record with perjury? Is it possible, that this "union of honest men" has been brought about at the board, and under the auspices of one who accidentally holds the office of Vice President of the U. S.? That Daniel Webster and ten Whig Senators are aiding and abetting in the meeting? It is almost incredible—and we shall wait for stronger evidence to confirm the monstrous tale. But if it be so, what must become of the proud honor of the President of the United States? What of the dignity of Virginia gentlemen? What mischief—what portentous coalition is on foot? Again we say, the story is too disgusting to be true. But revereas a nos montons. We understand the mutton in question was not raised by Mr. Botts, but was purchased by him in Richmond."

We are thunderstricken! We are senseless! We are about to give up the ghost! "Angels and ministers of grace defend us." We call upon the rocks and mountains to cover us. "Can it be true," that the breath has left our body? The President dining with "honest men!" And upon "a fine saddle of mutton!" "A fine saddle of mutton, which Mr. Botts had received from his farm in VIRGINIA." Resolutions of '98 forbid it! "It is almost incredible." "The story is too disgusting to be true." We feel our pulse returning. "We wait," before we yield our last breath, "for further evidence." We cannot surrender on the first summons.

Having recovered our breath, we have the satisfaction to state for the information of our readers, that there is not a particle of truth in the rumor that went to Mr. Ritchie on the wings of the wind from Washington, that "on Tuesday last Mr. Mangum had a dinner party, and that Mr. Tyler and Mr. Botts were among the guests." We have taken especial pains to make inquiries on the subject—in self-defence—for we should not survive another moment, if the rumor were well founded. It is true, as we learn, that Mr. Mangum did dine on Tuesday last, at his lodgings in this city. But we are enabled officially to state, that Mr. Tyler, on the same day and hour, dined at the White House—a mile distant. "But, revereas a nos montons, which, being interpreted, means, we return to our sheep. As "honest chroniclers," we are compelled to avow "the extraordinary and astounding" fact, that Mr. Mangum did dine with a dozen or more friends—political friends—on "a fine saddle of mutton," presented to him by Mr. Botts; but whether "raised by Mr. Botts, or purchased by him in Richmond," we were utterly unable, after the most indefatigable efforts, to ascertain. We did ascertain, however, that it was a Virginia "saddle"—of the mixed blood of the Bakewell and Broad-tail.

Our venerable contemporary has been deceived. We assure him he has been deceived. The rumor is without foundation. We trust his disconcerted nerves will for the present be restored to its wonted composure. But let him prepare himself for worse troubles than this. The clouds are thickening, and "H. Clay" is the "observed of all observers."

PENNSYLVANIA.—The Philadelphia American Sentinel states that of the delegates already chosen to the Locofoco State Convention which assembles March 4th, 27 are instructed to support Shunk for Governor, 12 Muhlenberg, 7 N. B. Eldred, 2 Jesse Miller, 2 N. J. Conyngham, 1 D. Sturgeon. There will be close work between Shunk and Muhlenberg.

WESTMORELAND COUNTY, the great Locofoco stronghold in Western Pennsylvania, has declared for R. M. Johnson for next President. The vote in county convention of township delegates stood—Johnson 36; Van Buren 12. This county gave Van Buren 1,926 majority over Harrison in 1840.

THE WEST BECOMING WISER.

MR. KENNEDY, of Indiana, on Tuesday last, in his speech upon the motion to reconsider the vote on Mr. Thomason's resolution—for which, see the proceedings of the House for Monday and Tuesday—gave the world some very gratifying intelligence. He said that "as to the great benefits derived by the West from a system of protective taxation, there had been a time when the West were big enough fools to let their pockets be filched of their money in that belief; but they now had found out that what they paid in taxes, direct or indirect, was so much gone. They knew now that when Government put its hand there and took out five dollars, it put four dollars of it in the pocket of another set of men, and all such songs came too late in the year 1844."

So it seems the people of the West were "BIG FOOLS" a few years ago, but have now become wiser. We are extremely rejoiced that the people of the West are becoming wiser so fast, and look in time, to see them all statesmen, philosophers, and sages. It needed not the assurance of the honorable member from the tenth district of Indiana, made upon the floor of the House of Representatives, with all the importance and responsibility which attaches to his position as the representative of seventy thousand people, to convince us that the people of the West, or at least that portion of them who reside in the said tenth district, were becoming wiser than they formerly were. The fact of their sending so erudite and distinguished a gentleman to represent them in the great legislative body of the nation proclaims their increasing wisdom, trumpet-tongued. If we recollect aright, the West, that is to say that portion of it which constituted the Northwest Territory, out of which were formed the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, &c., was once represented by a William Henry Harrison, and subsequently by a Jeremiah Morrow; that a Noble, a Rariden, a Jennings, a Test, and an O. H. Smith, formerly represented a portion of the people of the State from which the distinguished gentleman comes; men of little note, it is true, as compared with him, but whose names are associated with the history of the West, in times when the people were "BIG FOOLS." Really we cannot but rejoice at the rapid increase of wisdom in the great West, as evinced by the difference in the character of her representatives in old time and now, and we congratulate the people of the West upon having the fact proclaimed to the world, by their modest representative.

TENNESSEE.—The Whig members of the Legislature of Tennessee held a meeting on the 8th instant, and nominated Gustavus A. Henry and John Bell, as candidates for the office of electors of President and Vice President of the United States. They also appointed Wm. Martin, Esq., of Smith county, and Lewis P. Williams, Esq., of Fayette county, delegates for the State at large to the Whig National Convention to be held in Baltimore in May next; and Le Roy Pope and C. C. Norvell, Esqs., their alternates.

A Johnson meeting was recently held at Buffalo. The chairman, George W. Clinton, said that he regarded Col. Johnson as the strongest and Mr. Van Buren as the weakest candidate; that while he should certainly support Mr. Van Buren if nominated, yet that he should do so without any hope of success.

The Philadelphia Gazette says that Governor Porter has refused to appear before the Committee on Printing, appointed by the Legislature, to answer as to the charges made against the State printer in his annual message. They have issued a subpoena for him to appear before the committee.

MIKE WALSH, speaking of pipe laying, says:—"The cant about pipe laying during the last Presidential election is all froth and clap-trap; and it is indeed about every other election. We laid as much, if not more than the Whigs; and every man in the Democratic party who knows anything about the matter, knows that we did."

From the New York Tribune.

TARIFF AND PRICES.

It is often asserted by the advocates of free trade that the consumer pays the duty imposed by the tariff in all cases. This is grossly untrue, because we manufacture many articles cheaper than they could be imported without any duty. But the free trader says this is specially true in regard to those articles which are not made here. On one article I can speak from personal knowledge, viz: crockery, of which there is but one small manufactory in this country, having no influence on its price.

By the late tariff the duty was raised from 20 to 30 per cent. This article is regulated in England by a list made in 1814, and from this price a discount is made. Before the passage of the tariff the discount was (for cash in England) 45 per cent. An importation would then stand thus, on say

| | |
|--|------|
| 45 per cent. discount | £100 |
| | 45 |
| Duty 20 per cent. - | 11 |
| | 55 |
| Cost including duty | £66 |
| Immediately on the passage of the tariff the British manufacturers increased their discount to 50 per cent. and an importation now stand thus on | £100 |
| 50 per cent. discount | 50 |
| | 50 |
| Duty 30 per cent. | 15 |
| | £65 |

Thus showing that the article is now imported 11 per cent. cheaper besides the gain on exchange, &c. In this case, then, the increase of duty was in fact paid by the British manufacturer, who met that increase by a larger discount; and the article is now sold by the jobber 10 per cent. lower than in 1814.

AN IMPORTER.

The New York Tribune says that the Houseman family all believe that Polly Bodine is innocent of the horrid crime with which she is charged and are determined to leave nothing undone to save her. Her counsel visited her on Tuesday. He will probably sue out a writ of habeas corpus to have the proceedings carried before some other judge, but it will be impossible, as she is certainly in no situation to be removed.

AN AMERICAN IN ENGLAND.—We perceive by a late Liverpool paper that a Mr. J. B. Newell, of Iowa, recently delivered a lecture in that place, on the resources of the Western States of America, and the mutual advantages of a free intercourse between England and the United States. He elucidated his observations with several maps and diagrams, among which was a very good tableau of Iowa scenery.

U. S. STEAM FRIGATE MISSOURI.—By an arrival at New York, from Gibraltar, we learn that about forty thousand dollars worth of property has been recovered from the steam frigate Missouri, by means of divers in sub-marine armor. It is feared, however, that all efforts to raise her will prove fruitless, as the bows are all blown out from the concussion of the magazine; preparations are now being made for the blowing up of the wreck.

FROM BRAZIL.—By the barque Caledonia, 51 days from Bahia, the New York Tribune received Brazil advices several days later. It is said that the slave trade from the coast of Africa is very actively and successfully prosecuted in the Brazilian ports, especially Bahia, where several cargoes of human flesh have been successfully landed, notwithstanding the vigilance of the English, and even while English men of war lay at anchor in the harbor.

FROM FLORIDA.—The editor of the Tropical Plant contradicts the statement published in the Tallahassee Sentinel, of the settlers on Indian River being in a starving condition, and says:—"By the late arrival of several of our citizens from Indian River, we have the pleasure of saying that the colonists to that place are in a very thriving and prosperous condition; they have vegetables of every description the year round; abundance of the finest and fattest of wild game; unparalleled fish and oysters—and would not leave their earthly paradise at Indian River, short of an enduring heritage in the celestial mansions above."

THE SUICIDE—ATTEMPTED SUICIDE—STRANGE MONOMANIA.—Lechner's body was interred yesterday, (the 15th inst.) All the money in his possession is believed to have been recovered. He was the only one connected with the robbery. He has paid dearly for his crime. Awful indeed has been his end! He exhibited, it is said, considerable finesse towards persons residing in other portions of the house in Livingston street, in relation to the trunk, frequently joining in the sentiment expressed, that it must have been a very bad man that stole it, &c. This shows that he was fully aware of the nature of the offence. The Express notes it as a singular fact, that a criminal committed suicide (also by hanging) in the same cell in which Lechner did, about three years ago, and the cell is nearly adjoining to that in which the unhappy John C. Colt put a period to his existence a year or two since, when about to be executed for the murder of Adams—this being 51 and that 54. Lechner's wife also intimated her intention to commit suicide before her release yesterday. The intelligence of her husband's death was studiously kept from her, it being supposed that the shock, in her present state of health, would be more than nature could bear. She came to this country, it is said, in the same vessel with deceased, was much attached to him, and they were married five days after the recent robbery had been committed. Our readers are aware that an unfortunate female, named Amelia Norman, had been in the toms for attempting the life of her former acquaintance, a merchant named Ballard. This woman also attempted to commit suicide in her cell, but was prevented. She turned up her bed on one end in the same manner as Lechner did his, tied a handkerchief to the bed, had the noose formed and her neck in it, when Mr. Fallon, the head keeper, fortunately went into her cell and was in time to cut her down before she turned herself off. Her trial was set down for yesterday. Another female prisoner confined in a neighboring prison attempted to make way with herself at the hour when Lechner hung himself. It is a very singular circumstance, that all these persons should experience a desire to commit suicide at the same time.—New York Sun.

A HARD CASE.—On Friday, a habeas corpus case was heard before Judge Parsons, which excited considerable interest among the listeners. The following are the facts; the names of the parties not being material, are of course omitted. On last Saturday, a young couple of prepossessing appearance entered into the holy state of matrimony. The bride and bridegroom lived together until Tuesday, when the former left her husband for the purpose of visiting her father. As she did not return, the husband went after her, but was informed by her parents that she did not desire to go with him, and that he could not be permitted to see her. After several ineffectual attempts to have an interview with his wife, he at length concluded that she was held in restraint by her parents, and he accordingly applied for a writ of habeas corpus, returnable before Judge Parsons yesterday. The parties appeared according to the commands of the writ, and the relator stated his case. The respondent then produced the lady as a witness, who testified that she was under no restraint whatever, and that her flight and continued absence from her husband was entirely voluntary. To the question by the Court, whether she was willing to go back and live with her husband, she returned a decided negative, but would assign no reason for her strange determination, nor for the sudden and unaccountable dislike which she had taken to him, whom she had but a few days before promised before God and man to love, honor, and obey. We have no right to presume that she had not sufficient cause for her conduct. The writ was dismissed—the Court having no authority in the matter.

Philad. Ledger.

The SENATE yesterday considered and rejected the nomination of Hon. Isaac Hill for the Naval Bureau, vacated by the decease of Mr. Goldsborough.

LOCAL NEWS.

THE FIRST SEMI-MONTHLY LEVEE.—The Levee at the White House last Tuesday night was well attended, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. The promenade in the East Room was enlivened by the music of the Marine Band. Early in the evening this promenade was suspended, and on the north side of the room there was observed among the concentrating throng, to be some important question pending in Executive session; and from the gesticulations and smiles and bows, we knew that something recherche was in contemplation. And sure enough, as if by common consent, a cotillon party was formed, and the East Room exhibited the life and the entrancing fascination of the "mazy dance."

We learn from one who was there, that the second annual Ball of the INDEPENDENT GRAYS of Georgetown, which took place at Pompeian Hall in that city on Tuesday evening last, was a splendid affair, as was expected, from the character of the company. Every thing went off in fine style. They enjoyed themselves until the "peep o' day," and then seemed loth to depart. Our informant requests that they "try it again."

¶ We have been requested to call the attention of the Commissioner of the Second Ward to the condition of the pump on 11th street, between F and G streets, on which the denizens of some four or five adjacent squares depend for a supply of drinking water. It is desirable that he would cause the proper repairs to be given to it forthwith.

CONCERT.—The repetition of the pretty oratorio of "The Seasons" by Mr. Hewitt's pupils at Concert Hall (Todd's buildings) is announced for this evening, with the addition of "Flora's Festival," which was so rapturously received at the public exhibition of these pupils during the summer. Judging from the evident satisfaction of all those present on last Thursday evening, and the universal desire expressed for a repetition, Concert Hall will doubtless on this evening be filled with the lovers of sweet sounds.
